Dated August 28, 2020

Question No. 1:

The notice regarding the expression of interest includes the following statement regarding the presentation of relevant experience:

“Proof thereof is to be presented by means of valid contracts defining the subject of the procurement.”

Are suppliers required to send a copy of the full contract for each project presented in our experience with our expression of interest?

Or would it be sufficient to supply a signed statement from the client confirming the project, dates, and its value with an additional statement confirming that our company will supply a copy of the full contract immediately if requested?

Clarification No. 1

Prospective applicants are required to provide sufficient level of information describing scope of work related to specific referent experiences (contract), value of the contract dates, etc., proving similar experience in the matter. A signed statement from the client confirming the successful performance under the contract is most welcome.

No need to provide copy of the contract(s), however in case you are selected as the highest ranked company such documentary proof will be requested.
